68. 34.1. Field of the Invention The present invention relates to a solar battery module and a fixing system for the solar battery module. 2. Description of the Related Art A solar battery module using solar batteries, such as solar batteries made of monocrystalline silicon, polycrystalline silicon, and amorphous silicon and an antireflection film for improving light receiving efficiency, is widely used for such applications as solar power generation. The solar battery module is designed to have a structure in which a number of solar batteries are fixed to a solar battery mounting plate through a resin as a bonding material, and by using the solar battery module, sunlight is converted into electric energy. In the course of time, temperatures of the solar batteries mounted in a solar battery module become different from each other due to the influences of sunlight. For instance, a lower temperature is developed in an end-sided solar battery, due to the influence of the sunlight by which the solar battery comes to the end, while a higher temperature is developed in a middle-sided solar battery, due to the influence of the sunlight by which the solar battery comes to the middle. Also, the temperatures of the solar batteries which are mounted at a near-side position and a far-side position of the solar battery mounting plate are different from each other, due to the influence of the sunlight by which the solar battery comes to the near-side position and the far-side position. The difference of the temperatures of the solar batteries makes a difference of the performances of the solar batteries. As a result, the output voltage and the output current of the solar battery module decline over time. Further, if the performance of the solar battery declines, the power generation efficiency of the solar battery module declines, and the efficiency of the system of converting light into electricity declines.
