Six-axis controls provide many possibilities of movement. The character moves only in the vertical and horizontal axis. Selected items are found by clicking and tapping on the screen. "Fire" is the name of the game. It is possible to navigate through the game by means of the keyboard. About the author: Petr Logvinov Inspired by Tetris and the Wizardry series, Niflheim is a computerised dungeon crawler set in a grim and foreboding medieval land. Play as one of four starting characters, each with his or her own unique abilities. Embark on a quest to dispel the darkness and restore peace to the land. Fight through vicious beasts and ruthless enemies to progress through the game. Niflheim has a strong focus on depth and exploration. It is not possible to proceed through the game without doing everything on the game world. Welcome to the magical world of Dopadu where you have to save the princess from the awful dragon! Dopadu is a great platformer game. Now it's not as simple as it looks like. There are many levels and you've got to collect as many coins and diamonds as you can to get through them all. Even if you die, you'll still win coins. You're also allowed to use your "magic power" on the squares to move you forward a bit. The game also features many different worlds with their own unique architecture, style and story. All of them are quite spectacular. In case you die - then you've got to restart the stage. But if you get stuck on one stage - then you can still go back to that stage and try again. In-game controls: - Drag the screen to move left and right. - Click on the left mouse button to jump and double-jump. - Click the left mouse button to grab in-game objects. Throughout the ages of history, people have been looking for the lost gold of Atlantis. Now, the crown of Atlantis is stolen from its secret location and you're the only one who can save it. Atlantis is a new Minecraft-like game where you can build a huge island with all sorts of buildings. Here you can use the click-and-drag to rotate, move and scale your blocks. Once you've placed the building into the world, you can add treasures, decorations and place statues. In-game controls: - Click and drag to move the Tips in controlling the game You can jump or fly up with pressing the space bar or down with the up arrow key. If you want to release the fire from his nest while flying down, press the space bar, and if you want to release the fire from his nest while jumping, press the up arrow key. When the fire is directly above a dynamite, it explodes. When the fire touches a dynamite and blows it, the dynamite explodes. The flying fire flies to the left and right of the screen and lands on the leftmost or rightmost dynamite. The yellow dots that follow you indicate the distance at which the fire has not yet touched a dynamite and at which he can jump or fly up. The game ends when the fire blows up a dynamite or touches the area with the crackers (Updated June 2014) If you've read my other post about The Big Splash, you'll remember that I brought quite a lot of fireworks from California to Australia for Tony and I to use at our wedding. In the process, I acquired a few friends on the way, namely Molotovs, Zanzibar Ink, and Vacuum Flasks. I've now had nearly three months to play around with them and I've been experimenting with different firecracker designs. I thought I'd share the results of my experiments with you. These are not my latest designs, they are just some of the designs that came out of my playing. There are no order restrictions on them, feel free to create them in any order you wish, having fun with them is the key thing. Firecrackers Trying out designs Trying out designs Firecracker design progression over the past few months. these designs work really well with my firecracker pack provided by Firefly Fireworks. Firecrackers being detonated remotely (top left) Firecrackers being detonated remotely (top right) Designs work with any type of firecracker pack or single firecrackers Dynamite design Creating fireworks with neutrons and a lot of explosives: Enhancing sequential firecracker designs Taking a trip back in time Firecracker designs worked well with matchsticks as a detonating device Playing with rockets Explosives are very expensive Creating time bridges I've also been experimenting with rockets, blowing up fireworks and some of the designs look pretty neat when those rockets detonate. I've also been toying with using cannons (my favourite firecrackers) to detonate sequential designs. I may still end up doing that, but until now, I've been using rockets. As for time travel, I may end up writing that as a post at some point. As for cannons, there are certainly complex designs that I'd enjoy trying. Thanks to Tony and I for having an awesome wedding and for

Have fun playing with your fireworks.
