I have a code like this: play.Play.current().data.assets.Add("image/1.jpeg") play.Play.current().data.assets.Add("image/2.png") play.Play.current().data.assets.Add("image/3.png") But if I do it, I get this error: [error] C:\Users\Dinesh\AppData\Local\Temp\resources\assets\image\1.jpeg Is there any way to add more than one file without getting any errors? A: I am not sure if I understand what you are trying to accomplish. The play.Play.current().data.assets.Add("image/1.jpeg") will be executed only once and as soon as you call the second line play.Play.current().data.assets.Add("image/2.png") your previous image (first call) will be ignored. What you can do is use play.Play.current().data.assets.makeImage which will add all the given asset paths at once. n_e^3 and $F_{ns} = \tau_n^3 F_s$ respectively and T_n is defined in Eq. (4): $F_{s,obs}$ is the observed phase-averaged flux at around the phase of T_0 in Fig. 1 (Fobs). (5): In principle, the value of c_s should be determined by the data in the helium burning stage. However, the magnitude of the convection in that stage is not so large, so c_s in our chemical composition may be considered to be constant. (6): Note that the physical parameters of the convection zone also change during the helium burn stage, which may result in the different c_s . We consider only the helium burning stage. The present disclosure relates to a radiological imaging system having a radiological X-

I am new here. I've been browsing the forum for several months now, and I had to finally register. I am hooked on HPs, and I love the DIY stuff. Also, I have been in numerous heat pumps conversations on the other forums with fabulous folks. I live in New England, and my house has a foranea 120 WSF with an airflow rate of 14 cfm (this is high for a home in this area). My home is on 70-11/12. It was moduified by an HVAC dealer, and they have now sold the house I'm in, so they no longer service me (that was awful!). I know that the tech has recommended using copper tubing from the compressor out to the coil, and then from the coil to the fan, etc. I also know that using a better fan is recommended by a couple of people, but that is a huge investment, as it is about $700. Has anyone done a full duct cleaning? Is it worth replacing the system? What brand of HVAC fan do you recommend? I've also seen people on the other forums talk about an air-splitter. I am very interested in this. Can anyone help with the specs or give me a link? Second, I have had heat pump folks refer to my house. It has had a sh*tty duct work system for years. Is this DIY heat pump? How do I go about pulling the duct system? Or, are the plastic ducts just something they throw out 6d1f23a050
