Progress Progress is good. Progress is a thing. Progress is a monster. Progress is a building that we take for granted. It is bright, bold, vulgar and it can punch you in the face, but its also big, cold and omnipresent. It's easy to dismiss progress as a good thing, but if it weren't for progress, the world would be a terribly boring place. Progress is what has made this country what it is today. The idea of the type of society we live in today is a product of progress. After World War I and II, the United States gained a sense of purpose and the idea of progress. The United States expanded rapidly and gained a sense of value as a country based on its ability to progress. But we have neglected to think about progress.

And when we stop thinking about progress, we stop thinking about how important the United States is and the type of society it is. We think about progress as an idea that applies
